THE GIN LIST

A Note On Gin (we like notes)...

Gin has been on the go since the early 17th century in Holland - a shining beacon of greatness in amongst all the crappy sewage systems and general misery business. It was actually first produced as a medicine and sold in chemists to treat sore tummies, gallstones and gout (sexy).

It's been dished out left, right and centre to British troops for 'Dutch Courage', and was combined with tonic water originally as a super treatment for malaria! Every day is a learning day...

Some More Notes...

This time on "uisge beatha" or "water of life" the name our ancient forefathers gave to the fiery amber nectar now called whisky.

The exact origins of our beloved beverage are lost in the midst of time. We just consider it an in built central heating system to warm you up after a round on the course!

Enough of our blethering, and let's warm you up with a round of our own...
